PARIS, August 17.—The Figaro has received from Colonel Panizzardi, formerly Italian military attache in Paris, a declaration denying General Roget's statement in his evidence at Rennes that he (Panizzardi) addressed a report to Signor Ressman, formerly Italian Ambassador to France, to the effect that Colonel Schwartzkoppen, formerly German military attache in Paris, had relations with Dreyfus.

Panizzardi says he never heard thenme of Dreyfus until the latter's arrest, and that he made this declaration through an official channel on his honor as a soldier and a gentieman.

respondents of the London morning newspapers are, however, unanimous in the opinion that the tide has finally turned in favor of Dreyfus. The evidence yesterday (Thursday) was so favorable to him that even some of the Anti-Dreyfusites would fain admit that the scales are falling from their eyes. Madame Henry's dramatic characterization of M. Bertulus as "Judas" failed of the intended effect, because he immediately handed Colone. because he immediately handed Colone Jouaust, president of the court-martial an anonymous letter, that he had re-ceived, proving the whole scene prear-ranged.

WILL HAVE OPEN-AIR CONCERTS.

Citizens' Band Makes a Proposition, Which the Committee Accepts.

Which the Committee Accepts.

The Committee on Grounds and Buildings will doubtless receive the thanks of the public for granting a privilege to the Citizens' Band of Richmond to give free open-air concerts at the several parks of the city during the remainder of the summer. The generous offer of the president of the band was accepted by the committee at their regular meeting held last evening in the City Hall.

The committee convened at 7:45 o'clock, and there wore present Messrs. Gunst (chairman), Heeke, Ferriter, King, Snead, and West.

The committee considered a communication referred to them by the Council, signed by Adjutant-General Naile, stating that the National Government had been induced to loan to the State two Spanish guns captured at Santiago, and that it had been decided to have the same brought to Richmond, if it was the pleasure of the city to mount them and place them in one of the parks for exhibition. It was estimated that the cost of mounting the guns would amount to at least $500 or $500, and it was decided to return the communication to the Council with the information that the department has to its credit no available funds out of which the expense of mounting the guns could be paid.

The pay-roll of the department and sunhas to its credit no available funds out of which the expense of mounting the guns could be paid.

The pay-roll of the department and sun-dry bills were approved and ordered to

The pay-roll of the department and sundry bills were approved and ordered to be paid.

Mr. W. A. Dickenson, president of the Citizens' Band, appeared before the committee and offered the services of the band, which is composed of fifteen members, to give two free open-air concerts each week during the remainder of the summer season, if the committee would arrange to have seats provided each night a concert was given in the several parks. City-Engineer Cutshaw and Messrs. Gunst, Snead, and others spoke in favor of accepting the offer so generously tendered, and a motion made by Captain Ferriter to accept the offer of the president of the band and to permit them to give concerts in the several parks was unanimously adopted. Mr. Dickenson said the band would probably select Tuesday and Friday nights on which to give their concerts, and that they would play in each of the parks, giving a concert in a different park each concert night. The concerts will probably begin either next Tuesday or Friday night.

The question of the sale of the Clark-Spring property was, in consequence of the absence of several members of the committee, postponed until the next regular meeting.

Caused Suprise Here.

George Davis, the express messenger who executed a profound sensation in Washington Wednesday morning by firing four pistol shots at Arthur Baumgarten, who identified him as the man to whom a die of the Southern Express Company's seal was furnished, is well known here. He was in Richmond about ten days ago on a trip. He frequently ran on the division between Washington and Richmond, and less than a year ago he had a run of about two months on this division.

Mr. Andrew Weish, local agent for the Southern Express Company, said yesterday morning that the news of Davis's arrest was a great surprise to him, for he had considered him one of the most careful and honest young men he knew.

Mr. Charles C. Davis, a brother of the accused, who lives in this city, went to Washington Wednesday night.

The audience here gave vent to expres-sions of assent and dissent. M. BERTULUS. M. Bertulus, the examining magistrate, was the next witness. There had been lively anticipations of an interesting confrontation. The Magistrate inquired into the charges made against Esterhazy by his cousin, Christian, and it was expect-ed that Bertulus would be confronted with General Roget, who so tartly criti with General Roget, who so tartly criti-cised the magistrate yesterday. But the president of the court invited M. Ber-tulus to proceed with his deposition. The witness spoke in a low, husky voice, which was almost unintelligible to court and counsel. He was ineffectually urged to raise his voice.

FLAW IN THE DOSSIER. The witness had examined the secret ossier in the Cherche Midi prison, with Major Ravaly. The "Petit bleu" was the flaw in the dossier. So long as it could not be proved that the "Petit bleu" was a forgery, and the work of Colonel Pic-quart, the case would not hold water. M. Bertulus declared his belief in the honesty of Picquart and the innocence of Dreyfus. He declared the bordereau was in large pieces, and not in little bits. He also said it did not reach the War Office by the ordinary channels. He also said his belief in the innocence of Dreyfus was also based on documents in the secret dossler, which he had seen. But what, above all, confirmed the witness in his belief was the entire absence of a motive which could have tempted Dreyfus to cemmit such a crime.

"Without motive," emphatically de-clared the experienced magistrate, "there INNOCENCE OF ACCUSED. The earnestness with which M. Ber tulus insisted upon the innocence of the accused created a profound impression apon his hearers.

"You have been told," he said, "that Dreyfus is guilty. For myself, I believe, and believe profoundly, in his innocence. If I come here to tell you so, you will understand that it is because my con-science tells me that in so doing I am performing a duty, an absolute duty. "The Court of Cassatlon has declared the bordereau to be the work of Esterhazy. Now, the Court of Cassation is the supreme authority in all matters of justice in France." (Sensation.)
After a brief season of rest, M. Bertulus was recalled and confronted by Madame Henry. She said:

"On July 18th, the day my husband called on M. Bertulus, the Colonel, in the course of a conversation that evening told me he had had a friendly and charming recapiton. He described how the Magistrate advanced to meet him, and held out his arms. I said to my husband: 'Are you sure of this man. Are you sure he is sincere?' I am very much afraid his kiss was the kiss of a Judas.' (There was a great sensation in court at this statement MADAME HENRY.

The Colonel next declared that in 1891 did not know the contents of the secret dossier, but he believed, like all other officers, that it contained frightful proofs against the prisoner. When he became acquainted with its contents, however, he found that "his earlier impressions were entirely wrong." (Prolonged sensa-

Mrs. How was 78 years of age, and until about two years ago enjoyed excellent health, but since then she had felt the infirmities that accompany age.
